A Word to the Wise.

Local fishermen in this city say there is a certain person who does not live more than a hundred miles from the center of town who is in the habit of going after trout after the season is closed. They say that hardly a Sunday passes but what he likes out onto the Two mile creek somewhere and puts in the day during the speckled beauties from their hiding places. Of course the fishing is especially good after the season closes for the reason that there is nobody to disturb the fish, and the illegal fisherman has things all to himself. The men of the city who have spent their time and their money in stocking the streams hereabouts say that some time as this selfsame fisherman comes sneaking thru the brush he will meet one of his friends who is out there for the express purpose of catching him in the act, and that next morning there will be something doing in justice court. It should not need more than one warning to convince this same fellow that the best thing he can do is to stop breaking the law at once, otherwise his fish may come high.

Big Chimney Looming Up.

The new chimney being constructed by the Consolidated Water Power and Paper Co. is commencing to loom up in great shape. When completed it will be 150 feet in height, and will tower high above anything in that vicinity. The flue inside will be eight feet in diameter at the top, and is considerably larger than this at the bottom, the inside being tapered the same as the outside. Next to the base the chimney is 22 inches thick, and at the top it will be seven inches. The brick used in the large stack are a kind made on purpose by the company that is erecting the stack, and have holes thru them in a very solid manner. The erectors claim that the chimney will stand a gale of wind traveling at a speed of eighty miles an hour, which is a trifle more than we hope to see in this vicinity.

A Family Rumpus.

Mrs. David Taylor had her husband arrested on Friday on a charge of assault and battery, and the case was tried before Justice Brown and a jury of three men, who found that Mr. Taylor was guilty as charged in the complaint, and the result was that the judge fined him a dollar, and the costs made it amount to about thirty dollars.

It seems that Mr. and Mrs. Taylor had some words over the sale of a hoifer, and during the altercation the gentleman of the house threw a pail of water over his better half. She naturally resented this treatment and after it was all over Mr. Taylor came to the city and had his wife arrested for assault and battery. She came into court and pleaded guilty to the charge and paid her fine thinking to drop the matter here, but later had Mr. Taylor arrested with the result above stated.

Acres of Weeds.

There is one little thing that our city fathers do not pay much attention to that might be looked after with a view to beautifying our city somewhat, and that is the mowing of the weeds that spring up along the roadside and in vacant lots. In some places they have reached a luxuriance that would leave one to believe that it would be hard to exterminate them if such a measure were tried. It would not cost the city much of anything to dispose of these places, as many of the weeds grow on private property where the owners could be compelled to cut them. It is a matter that should be attended to regularly, and would mean much toward helping the appearance of the city in the suburbs.

Bad Weather for Fairs.

Marshfield people were not favored with very good weather for their fair, and it was especially bad during the fore part of the week. As a consequence they extended it one day, and were thus enabled to hold all their races, one day of which had been knocked out by the rain. Those who went to Marshfield, from here state that the exhibitions and races were very good and that they were well pleased with what they saw. Morrill also had bad weather for their fair and the consequence was that the receipts did not equal the expenditures. Wautoma is holding fair this week and the indications are that they will be more fortunate in the way of weather.

King Chop Suey.

Two performances of King Chop Suey were given on Wednesday and Thursday evenings under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Smith. The audience on both evenings was very small, scarcely sufficient to pay expenses, which was rather discouraging to the projectors. The production was fully up to the average of amateur performances in merit, and was entitled to a much better patronage than it received.

Weather Damages Melons.

Frank Whitlock the melon man reports that the frost and unfavorable weather has put his crop of muskmelons to the bad, and as a consequence he stopped selling them last week. His crop of watermelons is all right however, and he has been disposing of a large number of them during the past few weeks. The weather in Wood County is a trifle uncertain for the raising of melons, and it is seldom that a crop can be matured before the frost gets them.

WOOD COUNTY FIRST

Carries off the Persimmons by Winning First Place at the State Fair.

It there is anything in coming out ahead in an agricultural competition, we may consider ourselves right up among the best of them, as Wood county was awarded first place last week at the state fair, having won by a score of 104.05. Taylor county was second with a score of 102.25 and La Crosse county was third with a score of 101.10.

Wood county has been making excellent at the state fair for a number of years, and each time when we failed to win first place the men who had charge of the exhibit realized that it was not because we did not have as good a lot of stuff as any of them, but rather because the display was not arranged as nicely as some other counties. With this fact before them they have improved their methods until the first place was landed.

Men who have investigated the matter any in the past know right along that Wood county could produce as good food products as any county in the state. In fact it was known that our chances for raising diversified products was better here than in most other counties in the state, and the winning of the first prize at a state fair should be conclusive evidence to others.

The getting up of the exhibit was in charge of Wm. Burdopp of Richfield, John Specht of Marshfield, and A. J. Cowels of Arpin, and it is these gentlemen who are responsible for us having won the place.

For Owners of Autos.

When one reads of the antipathy that is shown toward the automobile owner by some of the farmers throughout the country he is apt to wonder what it is all about, and to think that the man from the country is unnecessarily harsh to the owners of these machines. But once in awhile something happens that changes one's views considerably.

Last Saturday an auto passed thru the city, and along about six o'clock it crossed the bridge. The driver of the machine saw several teams on the bridge, so he kindly tooted his horn and speeded up his machine to about ten miles an hour and let her buzz. He ran around one rig that was going in the same direction as himself, nearly scaring the horse into fits, and then whizzed by another that was coming from the opposite direction. This latter rig contained an old gentleman and a lady, and when the machine approached their horse reared up, and the two old people were completely helpless. The automobile was approaching at such a speed that it would have been impossible to stop it, and it was only by luck that the old people were not hurled from the rig and seriously injured. The incident in itself does not amount to much, as nobody was injured in the least, but it only illustrates why there is the grudge against these kind of concerns by people who drive horses and how easy it would be for something serious to happen.

Good for Only One Bar.

Liquor licenses are good for only one bar under a ruling that the department at Washington has ordered shall be strictly enforced. Dances, picnics and other entertainments will suffer from the enforcement of the rule, which will have its effect here. It has been the custom in many places where dances and picnics are given to have more than one refreshment booth in the building or on the grounds, though but one license will permit the operation of only one year bar. The government regulations cover the retail license given by cities and the result may be that one refreshment booth at dances and picnics.

Enjoyed Their Trip.

George B. McMillan and his niece, Miss Anna McMillan, who have been in the west for several weeks past, returned to this city on Friday. Mr. McMillan reports that they had a most pleasurable trip all thru and feels that he was well paid for the expense and trouble. They visited the Portland exposition, which he says was first class, especially mentioning the forestry exhibit and the electrical display. They also spent some time on the coast, and when they came to the return trip they spent eight days on their way home, traveling only in the day time, thus enabling them to see everything in the shape of scenery along the way.

Will Play at Merrill.

The high school football team expects to play the opening game of the season at Merrill next Saturday night. Lawrence intervenes to stop them. A series of games has already been arranged, and the first game will not be played here until two weeks from Saturday. The boys report that they have been putting in some hard work practicing this fall and expect to show up well when they get to playing.

Mr. Arpin Made President.

At the meeting of the Wisconsin Hardwood Lumbermen held at Milwaukee last week, E. P. Arpin of this city was elected president of the association, and Guy Nash of Shawagolden, was made one of the directors of the association. In speaking of the new president of the association the Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

"Edwin P. Arpin, the newly elected president of the Wisconsin Hardwood Lumbermen's Association is one of a family of six brothers, all of whom are lumbermen. The Arpin family has been represented in the lumber business of Wisconsin since 1845, when John Arpin, the father of six brothers, came to Wisconsin from Canada. The state was then a wilderness, with more Indians than white men. The business established by the elder Arpin has been taken up by his sons, and carried on successfully. Edwin P. Arpin is the second in age, and is the secretary and treasurer of the John Arpin Lumber Company, which is also the proprietor of the Arpin Hardwood Lumber Company, with mills on the Soo line in Wisconsin and headquarters at Grand Rapids. He was brought up in the business and knows it from beginning to end. He has charge of the sales department for the company, which is a large manufacturer of both hemlock and hardwood lumber."

A Good Talk.

Our high school scholars report that one of the best talks they have enjoyed for a long time was the one given them last Thursday by Mrs. Garst, who was attending the convention in this city of the Church of Christ. Mrs. Garst has spent a number of years in Japan, and it seems that she has been a close enough observer of persons and things so that she was able to give the children a very interesting talk. It has been the custom for some time past to have noted people about town talk to the high school children, telling them what a nice school house they have and also to bear down on the fact that the speaker did not have the advantages in acquiring an education that the child of today is favored with, and some more hot air along this line, and the consequence is that when the speaker gets thru with his little spiel each scholar has him properly sized up and catalogued, and they may not be able to express themselves in words, the chances are that they have a much better idea of his mental calibre than he has himself. You can get a lot of grown people into a church and give them a half hour of pretty slow stuff, or you can pose before them with a lot of dry statistics, and by occasionally abusing the fellow on the other side, make the audience believe that you are putting up a pretty good political speech, but when it comes to a lot of school children you have either to deliver the goods or stand the consequences.

Lost Valuable Horse.

Hugh Boles had the misfortune to lose his horse a week ago last Sunday in a most peculiar manner. Mr. Boles had taken a trip out on the marsh, and tied his horse to a tree while he was engaged in picking a few cranberries, and while he was away from the animal it managed to get tangled up so that it hung itself, and when Mr. Boles got back to where he had left the animal he found it dead. The horse was a young one that Mr. Boles raised himself and was a fine animal, and as a consequence the loss is felt by him quite keenly.

FROM CANAL ZONE.

Items of Interest from the Tropics by One of Our Former Townsmen.

La Brea, Sept. 26th, 1905. The Grand Rapids Tribune, I received two copies yesterday they were the first papers from home, also 4 reporters. They came at a very convenient time as one of my engineer's wife doctors. I was in the city and I took a turn at the wheel until 11 p. m. last night and between the running of two engines and generators and the papers the night passed very pleasantly. I notice that you are trying to scare the voters about republican domination. Now if you have any regard for me, don't get them so badly scared that they will not allow the government to appropriate any funds for canal purposes, for I am also miles from home and since I read your article I have become worried about my pay, as I could never get home if I could not get to the U. S. to vote for more tariff laws and if I should start to head it up through Central America to Mexico I would have to stop somewhere about 3 miles beyond where English is spoken to learn how to ask for a hand-out to learn it. I might get too hungry to get to the before I starved to death or get to the U. S. too late to vote. Then what would become of the laws that I have voted so hard to make. Just pause with your pen and think. My late insurance would become void as it would be proven that I was engaged in a prohibited occupation, (tramping) and then my family would never be able to pay their subscription to the Tribune. Now when you think of that you will get as much interested in tariff laws as I am. Now don't stop sending me the Tribune because we don't have the same views about these matters for I should not be cut off for wanting my pay in cash for I am more used to that and would not know how to spend dollars or go without the Tribune, especially the latter for I have a hankering for the ads. And at the same time see what a benefit it is for your advertisers, for the ads are read more here than at home. I have seen newspapers worn out from reading the advertisements. The ads are about all I read in the Spanish papers here and know that the ads will be about all the Spanish people will look at in the Tribune here, especially Kellogg Bros. Lumber Co's ads. Now when C. P. Bude this out he will appreciate their being looked at here and give you a very low rate on the next run of lumber that the Tribune boys and the merchants will be after more space and crowd out the political news.

Until this happens, you might put in something about the canal, more especially La Brea. We are at a point of view with our spirit of quarantining against the last La Brea. The Pass of Mellon has been charged her 2,000,000 feet of lumber and will fall soon. There is a steamer in the bay waiting for dock with 4,000,000 feet of lumber which will take six weeks to discharge and I will have to keep my power plant and brains going night and day, Sundays and all, for that length of time, sure, or Uncle Sam will put me at the prohibited occupation above mentioned. I saw an alligator in the river the other day waiting for me to swim across. It is a long way around by the bridge and I would be too old to walk across it when I found it. That alligator is the inducement built out to make me keep things ship safe (as I hear it here). He was lunching on an eel. I don't care much about swimming, I can get along with a shower bath, then it isn't such hard work as swimming anyhow. It was pay day for R. R. employees yesterday which took all day to La Brea. A line of Negroes was passing through and sometime as fighting for a chance to get in. I had to bail out my night fireman (with his own money which I got from my master). His case comes up today. I may have to fire tonight, if so will read the ads in the Tribune again. I am going to Calaboa tomorrow and will pick up something more interesting for next letter. La Brea, Sept. 26th, 1905. I went Shooting at Stevens Point.

Stevens Point has a new reputation in the claps of a shooting event, both in the victim and the guilty person. A woman, Mrs. William C. Krems, entered the restaurant of Mrs. Clara Peterson on Saturday and drew a revolver deliberately shot the latter woman. The shot did not prove fatal, although it may yet result so. The bullet passed thru the stomach of the victim. The doctor is said to have been caused by jealousy. Mr. Krems having been in the habit of eating at the restaurant of the injured woman, which, it seems, made Mrs. Krems jealous. The woman had a hearing on Monday and was bound over to the circuit court in the sum of $5000 to await the outcome of the injuries to Mrs. Peterson. Mrs. Krems was formerly Mrs. Joe Hindson of Dexterville.

Entertained Their Friends.

There was a very pleasant event at the Guild hall of the Episcopal church last Thursday evening, the occasion being a supper given by the members of St. Catherine's Guild, to which they had invited the members of the church and the husbands and gentle men friends. There were about fifty in attendance, and a very pleasant evening was spent by them present. The Guild hall had been decorated with flowers and was brilliantly lighted with electric lights, and presented a very pretty appearance. A fine supper was served by the ladies of the guild, which was thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

Bravo, Roosevelt.

Milwaukee News.—It is announced from Oyster Bay that President Roosevelt has been in conference with Chairman Cortelyou of the Republican National Committee, Senator Lodge and Elihu Root respecting and talking of action looking to the returning of the life insurance companies of the money collected and received from them by the Republican National Committee in the last campaign. The president is said to feel keenly the exposure of the duplicity of his campaign managers in taking money held in trust for widows and orphans to promote his presidential campaign, and is determined that so far as lies in his power reparation shall be made.

Mr. Roosevelt feels the blow more keenly, as he was instrumental in having George B. Cortelyou elected to the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee. The fact of Cortelyou's fall upon him or his administration through the collection of a great sum of money from corporate interests. When it was charged that Cortelyou was making the rounds of Wall street wringing money from the large corporations, Mr. Roosevelt made heated denial and charged Cortelyou's associates with being liars. It appears, however, that Cortelyou deceived him, and now that the deception has been exposed he is deeply pained. In my opinion Cortelyou, but he purposed to set himself right by insisting that the national committee shall return the misappropriated money.

It is refreshing to see President Roosevelt take the stand that the committee shall return its share of the loot. It is not enough, however, that it should make restitution to the plundered life insurance companies. The steel trust, the banks and railway corporations that contributed the millions that the Republican National Committee had at its disposal should not be permitted longer to hold the Republican party and the Roosevelt administration as debtors. The steel trust alone will exact $20,000,000 in extortionate profits from the American people between now and next spring. Return to Morgan and his associates the money that they contributed and enforce the anti-trust law, break up the combine, restore competition and permit the American people to obtain merchandise at reasonable figures. Let the Republican party and the administration obtain a release from the steel trust and then turn down its tariff shelter and bring relief to the flooded consumer. All along the line, the same thing should be done and the partnership between the Republican party and the trusts, banks and railway corporations dissolved.

How is it to be done? The money has been spent. Where shall it be obtained to make restitution and dissolve the unholy alliance? Let Roosevelt make an appeal for popular subscriptions. Democrats as well as Republicans could be expected to respond. It would be to their interests to contribute freely. Better that each citizen should pay $5 to the Republican committee than to submit to coal trust extortion the coming winter. Or ask congress to appropriate the money taken from the people by the trusts and tariff beneficiaries and transportation monopolies in unearned profits defies computation. A few millions from the treasury would relieve congress and the administration from obligation to the interests and they should be free to legislate for the people or to enforce the laws without fear or favor. An appropriation, however, would not be necessary. Call upon the people. They will respond.

The Democrats of the country should be able to raise the money and if the president will appeal to them, he may depend upon it that they will rally to his support in freeing his administration from obligation to organized wealth and from the scandal that has been placed upon it by the duplicity of George B. Cortelyou and the cunning of unscrupulous greed.

Wasson Herald.—The stalwart republicans may snatch a victory from the half breeds in next year's primary election if the administration forces split up on a number of candidates. The stalwarts, it is said, will unite on one candidate for governor and every last man of them will support him. Senator A. L. Kruttschnitt, of Wasson, seems to be meeting with most favor as the stalwart candidate. Andrew is a smooth campaigner and would give the half breeds as lively a run for their money as any man the stalwarts could put up.

Gone Into the Meat Business.

Charles E. Lester and Mr. McCarthy have bought out a meat market at Nekoosa and will run the place in the future. Mr. McCarthy will have charge of the inside work and Mr. Lester will do the buying. The shop was formerly owned by Otto Siewert.

A Teachers' Institute.

There will be a teachers' institute held in this city on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 6th and 7th, which will be open to the teachers of Wood County. The institute will be under the supervision of Superintendent Morris.

Celebrated Their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dickman of the east side celebrated their golden wedding on Sunday, they having spent fifty years of their life together. There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at their home to assist in the festivities, and a very pleasant time was spent. The old couple are enjoying very good health, and are both in their seventy-third year.

On Monday afternoon the ladies aid society of the east side Lutheran church appeared at their home and accorded them a very pleasant surprise. Mr. and Mrs. Dickman have made their home in this city during the past twenty years.

The Opinion of a Great Paper.

Business knowledge is the great under-lying power that pushes a young man on to success whatever his occupation may be. It makes him solid, substantial and practical. Backed up by energy and perseverance, advancement in business life is certain. It is possible by years of hard work and experience to acquire a business education, but an easier, surer and more thorough plan is to obtain it in a short time in a well equipped business college. Saturday Evening Post.

Young men and women who are employed during the day may obtain a practical business education in the Night School at the Grand Rapids Business College. Night sessions will open on Tuesday, Oct. 3.

Jacobson-Berg.

This afternoon at three o'clock occurred the marriage of M. G. Jacobson to Miss Aletta Berg at the Scandinavian Lutheran church, Rev. Chris. Madison officiating.

The groom is a brother to J. G. Jacobson, the architect, and is a bright, industrious young man. The bride is well known in this city and until lately has been employed in the telephone office as a compositor. She has many friends here who will heartily wish her a long and happy wedded life.

A Very Good Show.

Hell, Hell, presented at the opera house last Saturday, was one of the best plays of its kind that has been presented in this city for a long time. There was a very small audience in attendance, probably owing to the fact that very few appreciated what it was going to be, but those who did not go missed a very laughable production.

Entertained Her Friends.

Mrs. T. W. Brazeau entertained her friends at an "at home" on Friday afternoon. A large number responded to the invitations sent out and the guests enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon. The home was very prettily decorated with flowers, and refreshments were served.

Free Training of Nurses.

By the terms of a fund to be administered in connection with the Philadelphia School for Nurses, with-ought Building, Philadelphia, a number of young women from every county will receive free training in nursing. It is planned to ultimately reach and help in this way every village and township.

The young women will be provided with room, board, nurse uniforms and all the refreshments of a well-appointed Christian home. At graduation the diploma of the School and the Order of the Red Cross will be conferred, qualifying for practice in any State or country; the railroad fare will then be paid back home.

These applying and chosen to receive the benefits of this fund will be given two years' training, with a rich experience in nursing the sick poor of the city under skilled leaders. The term may be shortened to eighteen months by taking a preliminary course of six months' reading and study at home. A special short course enables young women to quickly qualify themselves for self support and a substantial income.

In addition to regular nursing, the young women are taught how to preserve their own health; how to recognize, avoid and destroy contagion; how to establish and maintain perfect sanitary conditions about the house; they are prepared for positions as office nurse and physician's assistant; they get a practical knowledge of City Mission movements, Daughters training, College settlement work, and are trained for special positions of trust in institutions.

The School is ten years old and is endorsed by physicians, leading educators and prominent men throughout the country.

Concert of the Roosters.

Were it not for the disgusting self conceit of the roosters one might enjoy a poultry show. The rooster is near to nature's heart. He has not civilization enough to repress his savagery with common politeness and savoir faire, and his disgusting exhibition of the art of being it offends good taste and refinement. How the hen manages to put up with it is certainly one of the mysteries of the coop. It is six or eight hens would join a "cock" club modeled after Sorrels and throw the rooster down good and hard once or twice, he would soon discover that he was not the only kernel on the cob. Milwaukee Journal.

AMONG CRANBERRY MEN.

EDITED BY W. H. FITCH.

The Cranberry and Weather Bureau.

The United States government annually spends ten million dollars for the benefit of those engaged in the industries of the nation. In order that the efforts of our workers shall be in harmony with natural laws this expenditure is made either for scientific knowledge or in the diffusion of useful knowledge, and while few may realize the work entailed upon the United States Weather Bureau for these purposes, thousands reap the benefit throughout the country.

Among the citizens of the soil perhaps the interests of no one class are more seriously affected by unfavorable weather conditions than the cranberry grower. It is not unusual to see the labor of four years turn down by a single night's frost or a hailstorm of a few hours' duration.

The ability to flood bogs in many cases furnishes a remedy which, if the grower knows where to apply, gives a measure of safety but as a bog of several acres cannot be flooded in a few minutes, an ability to judge of the weather conditions is necessary. As even the wisest of the cranberry growers cannot always do this, the Weather Bureau of the United States comes into play, and any means whereby unfavorable weather forecasts can be most speedily made known to the growers, proves of very great value to them.

The telephone seems to have come into play in a most satisfactory manner in this connection and both in New Jersey and Wisconsin cranberry growers are daily kept in touch with the probable weather conditions as forecasted by the Weather Bureau.

Capo Cod, the greatest cranberry producing section of the country, is still without this service but it is hoped that it will not long be so. The matter was given some consideration at the recent annual meeting of the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' association and there is no reason why the Cape Cod growers should not be the possessors of any information which will assist them in their business and we hope it will not be long before a system for making known the weather forecasts throughout the cranberry forests will be established. Why should New Jersey and Wisconsin receive from the government assistance which is not given Massachusetts? There is no reason, and the government will help this state as readily as any other if the people put forth an effort to secure that help, and we hope that a system of conveying weather forecasts to growers will be established for use during next year's season if arrangements are not completed for a system during the current year.—Wareham (Mass) Courier.

Cranberries Hurt by Hail.

Wareham, Mass., Sept. 13, 1905. A severe hail storm last week did considerable damage to the cranberry bogs in this section. Those reporting the greatest damage are W. J. Livermore, whose loss at the Star bog is estimated at about 1,600 barrels, and Dr. Rogers, who is reported to be a loser to the extent of several hundred barrels. Others suffered a greater or less extent.

"It is now apparent to those who have begun picking that their estimate as reported at the recent Cape Cod association meeting was altogether too sanguine," says the Courier. "The estimate of 95 per cent of last year's crop is probably too great by from 10 to 20 per cent. The berries hang mostly on top of the vines and the yield is not as great as appearances indicated before picking. Dr. P. F. March states that his yield will not be within 100 barrels of what was expected. Others report a like condition."

"Current prices range from $5 to $5.50 delivered at the station in car lots and there is every indication that an early rise in prices is to take place."—Fruit Trade Journal.

Cranberry Exhibit.

According to press and private accounts the display of cranberries at the State Fair, under the direction of Superintendent L. P. Haskins of the State Experimental Station, was very successful and satisfactory. It was a novelty to many visitors, a number of whom thought the berries were grown on bushes.

On account of earliness of season many of the late varieties, especially the Howes were not in their prime, but on the whole, the showing was creditable and should conduce to the welfare of industry in the state. It is true there are some growers, who, by reason of fabulous reports of exorbitant profits, and fish stories of enormous yields, deem it unwise to unduly exploit the avocation as being apt to invite and invite unprofitable investment, and it is deemed opportune to give the advice of a veteran grower to one seeking information: "I will not advise you to go into the business, nor dissuade you from it. Money has been both made and lost in it, but one thing I will suggest that at first you go slowly. I have spent dollars when cents would have sufficed and I am getting cents when I should be getting dollars."

On account of the peculiar and precarious nature of the vocation, nothing therefore, of the so called "soft snap" can be offered, but on the contrary those contemplating engaging in the enterprise should be prepared to bring to it a high degree of faith, patience and persistency for its successful prosecution.

Favorable Outlook.

Cranberry morchans are very sanguine of an excellent season this year. With the crop decidedly shorter than last season, and a comparatively small apple crop, their expectations seem fully justified. Last year the market was a hard one all through, but the crop was liberal and the apple crop enormous. Certainly if the demand up to the present time is any criterion, things should be very different this season.—Fruit Trade Journal.

At the annual meeting of the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association held in Wareham last month a report was promised the members, which we now take pleasure in publishing. This report is an estimate of the number of cars which will be required from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for the shipment of the Cape Cod cranberry crop of 1905. The report as received from the Superintendent is as follows: "We take pleasure in giving you the result of our canvass of the entire prospective cranberry crop from territory served by this road. The canvass was made through our agents, and of course may vary a great deal from the totals received at the end of the season. The estimate we obtained was 251,570 barrels total crop; equaling 1144 carloads of 220 barrels each. Last year the total crop aggregated 250,877 barrels; equaling 1137 carloads figured at 220 barrels to a car."

Mount Holly, N. J., Sept. 26.—Capt. Martin L. Haines, who was known as the "Cranberry King" of New Jersey, died last night at his home in Vineland. He was a member of the bar and a civil war veteran.

STRENUOUS BALZAC.

He lived in a frenzy of toil and died pleading for more time.

"To be celebrated and to be loved—these were Balzac's two supreme and passionate desires," writes "The Hop King," the English author. "He gave the preference to fame and killed himself with work, if ever author did. His books—each one of which, when he had settled down to the 'Comedie Humaine,' he proclaimed a masterpiece—were a veritable obsession. We know now with what ceaseless and almost three dreadful weeks at a stretch in the sealed and curtained chamber where the candles were never extinguished. Then, livid, unwashed and half clothed, he would drag himself to the printer's. 'This only in a nation of stylists could be done, and that never achieved a style make himself the first novelist of his day and a classic.'"

"Wearing and wasting as this travail was, Balzac's splendid strength of body, the sure and ready return of his inspired and acrobatic periods, his tireless belief in the future enabled him to continue it, with a minimum of repose, for thirty-one successive years. And what a bulk of work! From 1822 to 1824 he wrote thirty volumes, and in 1824 he was but twenty-five years of age and had not even begun to think of the 'Comedie Humaine.'"

"Between 1830 and 1842 seventy-nine novels of the 'Comedie' saw the light, and with all this the great work was never completed. On his deathbed he pleaded with his doctor for six months, six weeks, six days in which to consummate his task and sank into coma while pleading for six hours."

JAPANESE NEW YEAR'S.

A Day of Religious Rites and Specially Prepared Dishes. To a devout Japanese breakfast on New Year's day is a religious rite rather than a vulgar satisfaction of the appetite, says the London Chronicle. No ordinary dishes are consumed at this meal. The ten must be made with water drawn from the well when the first ray of sun strikes it, a potpourri of materials specified by law forms the staple dish, while at the finish a measure of special sake from a red lacquer cup must be drained by whosoever desires happiness during the coming year. In the room is placed an "eclan stand," or red lacquer tray, covered with evergreen leaves and bearing a rich dumpling, a lobster, oranges, persimmons, chestnuts, dried sardines and herring roe. All these dishes have a special significance. The names of some are homonymous with words of happy omen; the others have an allegorical meaning. The lobster's curved back and long claws typify life prolonged till the frame is bent and the beard is long; the sardines, which always swim in pairs, express conjugal bliss; the herring is symbolical of a fruitful progeny.

These dishes are not intended for consumption, although in most cases the appetite is fairly keen. The orthodox Japanese not only sees the old year out; he rises at 4 to welcome the new comer and performs many ceremonies before he breaks his fast.

Travelling Whales.
The whales that swim about the islands which lie off the coast of Norway and Finland in March and April travel immense distances. In May they turn up at the Azores or even at the Bermudas and sometimes pay a visit to the Antilles. They swim fast, for in just they are back off Norway. Some of these whales have been known to bring back evidences of where they have been, for harpoons of the peculiar kind used off the coast of South America have been found stuck in them.

According to the figures compiled by the United States bureau of labor from the reports of the several thousands and experts that have been employed in collecting the statistics of wages and food in the United States, the people are working under shorter hours, they are getting slightly more for the pay, they are paying more for the necessities of life and in a general way are a trifle behind their condition of a year ago. Wages have increased 17 per cent per hour, and weekly earnings per employee have increased 12.2 per cent. Retail prices of food have increased 11.7 per cent. Of the thirty articles included in the report, fifteen show an advance and fifteen a decline, but offset the fifteen articles that show an advance because those articles that have advanced in price more largely enter consumption.

COUNTLESS POTOCKA.

The Woman Who Sang to Chopin as He Sang to Death.

As the great Chopin lay dying his soul was captured by the song of the beautiful Countess Delphine Potocka, who had been his dearest confidante and friend. The romance of their friendship, one of the sweetest in history, is related by Gustave Kolbe in the Delmeor. The last tragic scene in the life of the composer has often been described and has been palliated by Harriet, but it is so touching that one may well read another version of it. Mr. Kolbe writes:

"Then came what is perhaps the most touching scene that has been handed down to us from the lives of the great composers. When Delphine entered what was soon to be the death chamber of Chopin's sister Louise and a few of his most intimate friends were gathered there. She took her place by Louise. When the dying man opened his eyes and saw her standing at the foot of his bed, tall, slight, draped in white, resembling a beautiful angel, and mingling her tears with those of Louise his lips moved, and those near him, bending over to catch his words, heard him ask that she would sing.

"Mastering her emotion by a strong effort of the will, she sang in a voice of bell-like purity the cantata to the Virgin attributed to Stradella—sang it so devoutly, so tenderly, that the dying man, artist and lover of the beautiful to the very last, whiskered his ecstasy: 'How exquisite!' Again, again, she sang more sweetly, this time a psalm by Marcello. It was the hushed hour of twilight. The dying day draped the scene in its mysterious shadows. Those at the bedside had sunk noiselessly on their knees. Over the mournful accompaniment of sobs floated the voice of Delphine like a melody from heaven."

The Roses.

Poet—I can make no mistake in saying that your cheeks are like the rose. Friend—But you have never met her. Poet—That matters not. If she is ruddy there are red roses; if she is pale, there are white roses; and if she is sallow, there are yellow roses.
